

ROOSEVELT IS SHOT

Crank Attacks Ex-President in Milwaukee--Wound Not Serious

ATTEMPTED ASSASSINATION
SHOCK AT NATION'S CAPITAL;
WORD TAKEN TO PRESIDENT

LATE BULLETINS.
CHICAGO, Oct. 15.—Colonel Roosevelt arrived in Chicago at 3:30 o'clock this morning. The colonel is said to be resting calmly. He had experienced no discomfort during the trip from Milwaukee.

NASHVILLE, Oct. 14.—The would-be assassin of Colonel Roosevelt, who wrote a note on stationery of the Bismarck hotel, never registered at that place under "that" name. The hotel has no writing room and stationery is procured only from the clerk, and it is believed probable Schrank might have stayed at the hotel under another name. No one at the hotel remembers a man of his description.

RACINE, Wis., Oct. 15.—Colonel Roosevelt was dozing in his bed half an hour after the train left Milwaukee. The colonel had walked to the train from the motor car that brought him to the station and admitted that he was somewhat tired.

A mere trifle, a mere trifle, was his expression for the wound. Dr. Scurry Terrell, the colonel's personal physician, and Dr. R. G. Sayle of the Milwaukee emergency hospital, were in constant attendance. Dr. Terrell said the bullet was deeply imbedded in the thick layer of flesh over the colonel's chest and that there was no indication that the lung had been touched.

"He has not coughed or shown nausea," said Dr. Terrell. "The wound is not dangerous."
The colonel's bullet-pierced coat and blood-soaked waistcoat were brought into the press car. The following pierced memoranda were in the coat:

"Wilson's record as governor."
"Wilson's attitude toward trusts."
"La Follette."
"Wilson's report on record of immigration ten years ago as compared with the present."

CHICAGO, Oct. 15.—A Colonel Roosevelt's special train neared Chicago, a cordon of police was placed around the old station of the Northwestern railroad, and an ambulance from the Presbyterian hospital arrived. It was undecided whether the colonel should be taken at once to the hospital or be left on the train until daylight. If the colonel is sleeping, it is probable he will be allowed to rest before removal to the hospital.

CHICAGO, Oct. 14.—At Progressive headquarters here the following message was received from Milwaukee, sent by the surgeons attending Colonel Roosevelt:

"Colonel Roosevelt is suffering from a superficial flesh wound in the right breast. There is no evidence of injury to the lung. The bullet is probably somewhere in the chest wall. There is only one wound and no sign of injury to the lung. The bleeding is insignificant. The wound has been sterilized externally with sterilized gauze by Dr. R. T. Fayle, the consulting surgeon of the emergency hospital."
"The bullet passed through Colonel Roosevelt's army overcoat and other clothing and through a manuscript and spectacle case in his breast pocket, and its course was nearly spent before it penetrated the chest wall. His condition is so good that the surgeons did not object to his continuing his journey to Chicago in his private car. In Chicago he will be placed under surgical care."

"DR. R. T. FAYLE,
"DR. JOSEPH COLT BLOODGOOD,
"OF Johns Hopkins.
"DR. F. A. STRATTON."

CHICAGO, Oct. 14.—Philip Roosevelt, cousin of Colonel Roosevelt, wired further information that the X-ray photograph indicates that the bullet did not penetrate the abdominal wall, but lodged in what is known as the belly wall. If the abdominal wall had been penetrated, it would not have been safe for the colonel to attempt the journey to Chicago. The wound is now not regarded as serious.

MILWAUKEE, Oct. 14.—Colonel Roosevelt left for Chicago on the Chicago and Northwestern railway. He was under the care of Dr. Terrell, his physician, Dr. Joseph Bloodgood of Johns Hopkins and Dr. R. T. Sayle. The emergency received word of the run to Chicago as fast as possible, and it was hoped to reach Chicago shortly after 2:30 a. m.

ROOSEVELT SPECIAL TRAIN, SOUTH MILWAUKEE, Oct. 14.—Colonel Roosevelt was in bed resting quietly as the special train pulled out of Milwaukee for Chicago. He had taken some nourishment and said he felt at ease.

MILWAUKEE, Oct. 15.—The positive statement that Colonel Roosevelt was not injured seriously was made by Dr. Frederick A. Stratton of Milwaukee, one of the physicians who examined the colonel. Dr. Stratton said there was no cause for alarm as to the colonel's condition.

"The wound was a superficial one," said Dr. Stratton. "The bullet is imbedded in the muscular tissues. All that we did at the hospital was to put on an antiseptic dressing."

"You may say Colonel Roosevelt is not in a serious condition. There is no truth in the report that the bullet penetrated the abdominal wall. If the bullet had reached his lungs, it would have been evident and he would have had coughing spells."

MILWAUKEE, Oct. 14.—A written proclamation found on the clothing of the man who did the shooting reads:

October 14, 1912.—"In a museum I saw President McKinley sit in a monk's attire in whom I recognized The President. The dead president said: 'This is my death.'"

September 12, 1912.—"1:30 a. m. While writing a poem, some one tapped me on the shoulder and said: 'Let me take the president's chair.' I could only see Mr. McKinley's features. I swear this writing is nothing but the truth."

"So long as Japan could rise to the greatest power of the world despite her surviving a transition more than two thousand years ago, as General Negi so nobly demonstrated, it is the duty of the United States of America to uphold the third term tradition. Let every third term be regarded as a traitor to the American cause. Let it be the right and duty of every citizen to forcibly remove a third term. Never let a third term party emperor come into power."

"I am willing to die for my country. God has called me to be his instrument, so help me, God."
"Signed—Innocent Guilty."
"In Germany a strong tower is our aid."

CHICAGO, Oct. 15.—Colonel Roosevelt slept all the way from Milwaukee to Chicago. At 2 a. m. Dr. Terrell announced that his patient's temperature was normal and his pulse 84. The train was halted outside the Chicago station and it was decided after a conference of physicians that as the colonel was sleeping peacefully he should not be removed until 7 a. m.

NEW YORK, Oct. 14.—Mrs. Theodore Roosevelt was attending a musical comedy tonight at the time the attempted assassination of the president's life in fear that she might be unnecessarily shocked by the announcement of the attempted assassination of her husband.

There were among the first to receive the news, dispatched a messenger, who broke the news to Mrs. Roosevelt as she sat in a box with a party of friends.

Mrs. Roosevelt left the theater immediately, driving to the headquarters of the Progressive party.

JOHN SCHRANK FOLLOWS
ROOSEVELT THOUSANDS OF MILES TO KILL HIM

With Bullet in Left Breast Progressive Leader
Speaks For Hour to Milwaukee Audience---
Taken to Chicago For Operation

CHICAGO, Oct. 15.—Colonel Theodore Roosevelt was shot in the abdominal region shortly before 8 o'clock last night while sitting in his automobile in front of the Gilpatrick house in Milwaukee, about to start for the auditorium to deliver his scheduled address. According to latest accounts the bullet is imbedded in the muscular tissue and the wound is not serious.

The attempted assassination and all its accompanying scenes were dramatic in the extreme. The would-be murderer was John Schrank of New York City, a man apparently demented on the subject of the third term. He was captured and locked up.

Unconscious of his wound, Colonel Roosevelt proceeded to the auditorium and when his condition was discovered, in spite of the protest of his physician he made a stirring address on the subject of his attempted murder. Weakened from loss of blood at the conclusion of his speech, he was taken to the emergency hospital, where after an examination by physicians, the nature of his wound was ascertained. It was not considered serious enough to compel a stay in Milwaukee and at 12:50 a. m. he was taken aboard his special train for a slow run to this city.

The colonel announced that he would spend the night on the train and after a few hours here, would go on to Indianapolis to fulfill his engagement there. It was expected that he would be left in his car until 6 o'clock. Tentative arrangements were made here to take him to the Presbyterian hospital if it was deemed advisable.

The special train left for this city on the Chicago & Northwestern Railroad with the patient under the care of three physicians.

If he is operated upon for the removal of the bullet Dr. John B. Murphy, assisted by several leading Chicago surgeons, probably will officiate.

That the wound was not more serious was due to the fact that the bullet was spent from passing through the colonel's army overcoat, spectacle case and the manuscript of his contemplated speech.

REACHES MILWAUKEE.
The shooting took place in front of the hotel Gilpatrick. Colonel Roosevelt reached Milwaukee shortly after 8 o'clock and after making his way through the crowd that had gathered at the station, entered an automobile and was driven to the hotel. He took dinner in a private dining room on the main floor with members of the party on his private car.

After dinner Colonel Roosevelt went to his room on the second floor of the hotel and shortly before 8 o'clock he started for the auditorium. His automobile stood in front of the door and about it was a crowd of several hundred persons, who were waiting to catch a glimpse of the colonel as he started out.

With the colonel were Philip Roosevelt, a son, and Captain Gerard. The crowd pressed close about the colonel and gave a cheer as he appeared. As the party reached the automobile Colonel Roosevelt's companions stood aside and he stepped into the car. Martin entered directly behind him and sat on the further side of the car.

Colonel Roosevelt stood up, waving his hat in answer to the cheers of the crowd. The assassin was standing in the crowd a few feet from the automobile. He pushed his way to the side of the car and raising his gun fired.

Martin caught the flash of the revolver as the shot was fired and stepped over the car a second after the bullet sped on its way. Colonel Roosevelt barely moved as the shot was fired. Before the crowd knew what had happened, Martin, who is six feet tall and a former football player, had landed squarely on the assassin's shoulders and had borne him to the ground. He threw his right arm about the man's neck with a deathlike grip and with the left arm seized the hand that held the revolver. In another second he had disarmed him.

Colonel Roosevelt stood calmly looking on, as though nothing had happened. Martin picked the man up as though he were a child and carried him the few feet which separated them from the car almost to the side of the colonel.

"Here he is," said Martin, "look at him, Colonel."

All this happened within a few seconds and Colonel Roosevelt stood looking rather curiously at the man who had attempted his life before the stunned crowd realized what was going on. Then a roar of rage went up. "You'll kill him, kill him!" cried a hundred men. The crowd pressed in on them and Martin and Captain Gerard, who had followed Martin over the side of the automobile, were caught with their prisoners in the midst of a struggling throng of maddened men. It seemed for the moment that the assassin would be torn to pieces by the infuriated crowd and it was Colonel Roosevelt himself who interfered on behalf of the man.

He raised his hand and motioned imperiously to the crowd to fall back. "Stop, stop," he cried. "Stand back, don't hurt him."

The crowd at first was not disposed to heed his words, but at length fell back and permitted Martin and Captain Gerard to carry the man into the hotel. After a short struggle, the assassin gave up and was carried without resistance out of the reach of the crowd.

"Are you hurt, Colonel?" a hundred voices called out.

"Oh, no," he responded with a smile. "Missed that time. I'm not hurt a bit. I think we'd better be going on."

He said to the other members of his party, "or we will be late."

UNAWARE OF SHOT
No one in the party, including Colonel Roosevelt himself, entertained the slightest notion that the colonel had been shot. It was not until the colonel had entered the hotel when John Schrank, another of Colonel Roosevelt's secretaries, uttered a sharp exclamation and pointed to the colonel's breast.

"Look, Colonel," he said, "there is a hole in your overcoat."

Colonel Roosevelt looked down, saw the hole, and then substituted the big army coat which he was wearing and thrust his hand in his breast. When he withdrew it his fingers were stained with blood.

IN PRESENCE OF POSSIBLE
DEATH, ROOSEVELT GIVES SOLEMN EMPHASIS TO HIS
PROGRESSIVE MESSAGE

"MILWAUKEE, Oct. 14.—"I do not care a rap about being shot," said Colonel Roosevelt in his speech tonight.

"Friends," he began. "I shall have to ask you to be as quiet as possible. I do not know whether you fully understand that I have just been shot, but it takes more than that to kill a bull moose. But fortunately I had my manuscript (holding up manuscript, showing audience where the bullet had gone through), so you see I was going to make a long speech. And, friends, the hole is in it that the bullet went through and it probably saved it from going into my heart. The bullet is in me now, so that I cannot make a very long speech. But I will try my best."

"And now, friends, I want to take advantage of this incident to say a solemn word of warning as I know to my fellow Americans. First of all, I want to say this about myself. I have altogether too many important things to think of to pay any heed or feel any concern over my own death. Now I would not speak to you insincerely within five minutes of being shot. I am telling you the literal truth when I say that my concern is for many other things. It is not in the least for my own life."

"I want you to understand that I am ahead of the game anyway. No man has had a happier life than I have had, a happier life in every way. I have been able to do certain things that I greatly wished to do, and I am interested in doing other things. I can tell you with absolute truthfulness that I am very much uninterested in whether I am shot or not."

"It was just as when I was colonel of my regiment, I always felt that a private was to be excused for feeling at times some pang of anxiety about his personal safety, but I cannot understand a man fit to be colonel who can pay any heed to his personal safety when he is occupied as he ought to be occupied with the absorbing desire to do his duty."

"I am in this cause with my whole heart and soul; I believe in the Progressive movement—a movement for the betterment of mankind, the movement for making life a little easier for all our people, a movement to try to take the burdens off the man and especially the woman in this country who is most oppressed. I am absorbed in the success of that movement. I feel uncommonly proud in belonging to that movement."

"Friends, I ask you now this evening to accept what I am saying as absolute truth when I tell you I am not thinking of my own safety. I am not thinking of my life or of anything connected with my personally. I am saying this by way of introduction because I want to say something very serious to our people and especially to the newspapers."

"I don't know who the man was who shot me tonight. He was seized by one of my stenographers, Mr. Martin, and I suppose is in the hands of the police now. He shot to kill me. I am just going to show you (Colonel Roosevelt then unbuttoned his coat and vest and showed his white shirt badly stained with blood). Now, friends, I am going to be as quiet as possible even if I am not able to give the challenge of the bull moose quite as loudly. Now, I do not know who he was or what party he represented. He was a coward. He stood in the darkness in the crowd around the automobile and when they cheered me and I got up to bow, he stepped forward and shot me in the breast."

"It is a very natural thing that weak and vicious minds should be inflamed to acts of violence by the kind of foul mendacity and abuse that have been heaped upon me for the last three months by the papers in the interests not only of Mr. Debs, but of Mr. Wilson and Mr. Taft. Friends, I will disown and repudiate any man of my party who attacks with such vile, foul slander and abuse any opponents of any other party."

"Now, I wish to say seriously to the speakers and to the newspapers representing both the Republican and Democratic and Socialist parties that they cannot, month in and month out, year in and year out, make the kind of slanderous, bitter and malevolent assaults that they have made and not expect that brutal and violent characters, especially when the brutality is accompanied by a not too strong mind—they cannot expect that such natures will be unaffected by it."

"I am not speaking for myself at all; I give you my word I do not care a rap about being shot, not a rap. I have had a good many experiences in my time and this is only one of them. What I do care for is my country. I wish I were able to impress on our people the duty to feel strongly, but to speak truthfully of their opponents. I say now I have never said on the stump one word against any opponent that I would not defend in the library. I have said nothing that I could not substantiate and nothing I ought not to have said, nothing that, looking back, I would not say again. I am all right."

After Colonel Roosevelt had concluded that part of his speech in which he referred to his injury, he turned to concrete issues of the campaign and spoke as though he were making one of the addresses which are a matter of daily routine with him. After he had been speaking for some time, he turned to Dr. Terrell and said:

How long have I been speaking?"

"Three-quarters of an hour," said the doctor, glancing at his watch.

"Well," said the colonel with a smile, "I'll talk for a quarter of an hour more."

The crowd laughed and then broke into a cheer.

Although weakened by the shot, Colonel Roosevelt kept his audience in good spirits by an occasional joke which served to relieve the tension. The people watched him fixedly, following his every movement with their eyes for any suggestion that he was becoming weak. They shifted their feet nervously and gripped the backs of the chairs in front of them. Colonel Roosevelt talked on as though he were ignorant of the strange circumstances under which the speech was being made.

At once juncture he turned to the table upon the stage for the manuscript of his speech, which had been penetrated by the bullet. It was not on the table where he had left it, and he saw it in the hands of one of the men on the stage. He demanded it back with the words:

"Teach them not to grab." The people, glad of the opportunity of relieving their pent up feelings, laughed hilariously.

He learned also that he was to be a guest at the Gilpatrick and managed to get in a position near the entrance, where he could shoot to kill when Roosevelt appeared.

Schrank said he was sorry he had caused all this trouble for the good people of Milwaukee and Wisconsin, but he was not sorry that he had carried out his plan.

ROOSEVELT IS SHOT AT MILWAUKEE

The crowd. He raised his hand and instantly there was silence.

"It's true," he said. Then slowly he unbent his coat and placed his hand on his breast. "Those in the front of the crowd could catch sight of the blood-stained garment."

"I am going to ask you to be very quiet," said Colonel Roosevelt. "And please excuse me from making you a very long speech. I'll do the best I can, but you won't hear a bullet in my body. But it's nothing. I'm not hurt badly."

A sigh of relief went up from the crowd and then an outburst of tumultuous cheering. Thoroughly assured by his action, that he was in no serious danger, the people presently settled back in their seats to hear his speech.

SPEAKS FOR AN HOUR

Colonel Roosevelt began to speak in a firm voice, somewhat lower than his usual tone and except that his chance gestures were less emphatic than usual, there was nothing about the man to indicate his condition. After he had been speaking a few minutes, however, his voice sank somewhat and he seemed to stand rather unsteadily. Dr. Terrell and Colonel Lyon stepped up to him and the doctor insisted that he stop.

"I'm going to finish this speech," said the Colonel, emphatically. "I'm all right. Let me alone."

Dr. Terrell and Colonel Lyon sat down again. The Colonel continued his speech evidently with increasing effort, but he succeeded in making himself heard and talked for more than an hour. Then he was rushed to his automobile which was waiting at the door of the emergency hospital.

The operation room had been placed in readiness to receive Colonel Roosevelt and six of the leading surgeons of Milwaukee were awaiting his arrival. Colonel Roosevelt was unharmed and placed upon the operating table, although he insisted he was not badly hurt, and that the doctors were taking it too seriously.

TALKS POLITICS ON TABLE

An examination of the wound showed that it had been made by a bullet of large size.

Just east of the left breast, half way between the collar bone and the lower rib. The physicians found they knew no more after their examination than before as to the location of the bullet and it was decided to send for an X-ray machine to determine to what depth the bullet had penetrated.

While he was waiting for the X-ray machine, Colonel Roosevelt sat up on the operating table and talked politics and joked with the physicians.

In the meantime, hidden away in an inner room of the police station, Colonel Roosevelt's assailant was being subjected to a rigid examination. He refused stubbornly to give an account of himself and would say nothing except the "I will tell you tomorrow."

After a long siege, however, the police forced from him the statement that he was John Schrank of 272 East Tenth street, New York.

Clippings found in the man's pocket showed that he had studied Colonel Roosevelt's itinerary carefully with the evident intention of selecting the place at which he might accomplish what he had in mind.

At the Gilpatrick hotel that while Colonel Roosevelt was at dinner, a short, dark man of about 40 years of age, made four attempts to gain admission to the dining room, being turned away each time. Those who saw him said that he wore a white shirt and a dark coat.

From this circumstance the report gained currency that two men were engaged in the attempt to take Colonel Roosevelt's life. The police tonight were unable to gain any evidence to bear out this theory.

STORY OF ASSAULT

It was when Colonel Roosevelt perhaps over his life, told tonight the story of his adventure.

"I walked down stairs with the Colonel and out to the car," he said, "and had taken my seat before anything happened. As 'Colonel' Roosevelt was starting in the car waving his hat to the crowd, the flash of metal caught my eye. I did not stop to think what it was doing, and before I really knew it, I jumped over the side of the car and had my arm around the neck of a man. I had my gun drawn. Everything seemed to happen at once."

"There was a flash, a sound of a shot and I was on the ground with the man. I threw one arm about his neck and held him fast."

At the same time, I caught his gun with my free hand and wrested the revolver from him. He struggled for a minute, but in spite of the fact that he was acting like a madman, he did not keep the fight up long and, with the help of Captain Girard, I soon had him under control."

"I picked the man up and held him where Colonel Roosevelt could see him."

"The poor creature," said the Colonel, "put the revolver into my pocket and began to drag the man out of the crowd which was on us in a minute, struggling to get at the prisoner."

SAVED BY ROOSEVELT

"The Colonel saw the man was in danger. He put the revolver into my pocket and began to drag the man out of the crowd which was on us in a minute, struggling to get at the prisoner."

"It is the greatest distress that I hear this," said Governor Wilson, "but I rejoice that Colonel Roosevelt apparently has escaped serious injury."

Colonel Roosevelt's son, Theodore, Jr., heard of the attack on his father but tonight and hurried to Progress. He had been to meet his mother and await details from Milwaukee.

Mrs. Roosevelt probably will leave for Chicago tomorrow. George E. Roosevelt, a cousin of Colonel Roosevelt, tonight said she would spend the night of the night at his Fifth avenue home.

Shortly after midnight Mrs. Roosevelt received a telegram which had evidently been dictated by her husband, assuring her that he was in no danger and making light of the attempt on his life.

"I am now in the American hospital. The bullet did not hit anything vital, and I think they will find it somewhere around. It is no more serious than the injury the boys received. My voice is holding out well and I will go on with the trip. Don't worry. Love to all."

WASHINGTON ASTOUNDED

WASHINGTON, Oct. 14.—News of the attempt on Colonel Roosevelt's life came as a complete shock to Washington, officials and ordinary citizens alike. The city was filled with excitement, streets became lined with expectant people reading bulletin boards, and the crowds emerging from the theaters eagerly read newspaper extras.

Members of the cabinet were in the city. Secretary Knox and Secretary Fisher have just landed on the Pacific coast—one from Japan and one from Hawaii. Secretary Stimson of the War Department, who was the Colonel's candidate for governor of New York in 1910, and one of his personal friends, was in New York at a speaking trip in New York state for President Taft. Secretary Nagel, too, was on his way to the West to speak in the President's campaign, and Attorney General Wickham was in New York at the usual review with President Taft. Among the attaches at the White House executive offices, the utmost anxiety was shown.

ATTEMPTED ASSASSINATION IS SHOCK

"It is the greatest distress that I hear this," said Governor Wilson, "but I rejoice that Colonel Roosevelt apparently has escaped serious injury."

Colonel Roosevelt's son, Theodore, Jr., heard of the attack on his father but tonight and hurried to Progress. He had been to meet his mother and await details from Milwaukee.

Mrs. Roosevelt probably will leave for Chicago tomorrow. George E. Roosevelt, a cousin of Colonel Roosevelt, tonight said she would spend the night of the night at his Fifth avenue home.

Shortly after midnight Mrs. Roosevelt received a telegram which had evidently been dictated by her husband, assuring her that he was in no danger and making light of the attempt on his life.

"I am now in the American hospital. The bullet did not hit anything vital, and I think they will find it somewhere around. It is no more serious than the injury the boys received. My voice is holding out well and I will go on with the trip. Don't worry. Love to all."

WASHINGTON ASTOUNDED

WASHINGTON, Oct. 14.—News of the attempt on Colonel Roosevelt's life came as a complete shock to Washington, officials and ordinary citizens alike. The city was filled with excitement, streets became lined with expectant people reading bulletin boards, and the crowds emerging from the theaters eagerly read newspaper extras.

Members of the cabinet were in the city. Secretary Knox and Secretary Fisher have just landed on the Pacific coast—one from Japan and one from Hawaii. Secretary Stimson of the War Department, who was the Colonel's candidate for governor of New York in 1910, and one of his personal friends, was in New York at a speaking trip in New York state for President Taft. Secretary Nagel, too, was on his way to the West to speak in the President's campaign, and Attorney General Wickham was in New York at the usual review with President Taft. Among the attaches at the White House executive offices, the utmost anxiety was shown.

ROOSEVELT SHOT

Only the almost miraculously accidental interposition of an army overcoat, a folded manuscript, and a heavy spectacle-rimmed in the direct line of the bullet, saved Theodore Roosevelt from being the fourth in the startling line of American presidential assassinations. Every previous attempt to kill an American president has been successful, and this attempt to kill a former president and presidential candidate escaped success only by the bare millionth chance. Ordinarily, when a large-caliber bullet is fired point-blank into a man's breast, it kills him. And this wound of Roosevelt's, while happily not dangerous, is no scratch. It is doubtful if there is another man in the world who, after receiving it, would have the nerve to deliver, not merely a speech, but such a wonderfully effective speech as Roosevelt delivered last night. Whatever else one may think of Roosevelt, he showed man's-size courage and self-command last night.

There are two immediate lessons of this almost successful attempt at murder. One is the moral drawn by Roosevelt himself last night. You can not spew abroad the venom of vituperation without poisoning some minds with it. These American political assassinations are the reaction of weak minds to strong minds' hatreds. Keen men set out to assassinate character; dull men follow by assassinating the body. No public man in our history has been assailed with such brutal and envenomed hatred as Roosevelt. Now comes the natural result—the same process that led to the shooting of Lincoln, Garfield, and McKinley—that a half-crazed brain exploded into crime under the stress which stronger minds translated into mere vituperation.

The other moral is one which Roosevelt would refuse to draw, but which nevertheless ought to be drawn for him, and even against him. That is that we ought to grant more aloofness to our public men. Our customary way of honoring a great man is to manhandle him. We throw him to the crowd and treat him as a thing for their amusement. We deny him the commonest rights of privacy, such as every ordinary citizen enjoys, and if he attempts to exercise them, we repudiate him as "aristocratic" and "stuck up." If an American president were to be surrounded with any part of the seclusion and protection given to the heads of all European states, presidents and kings alike, it would be denounced as offensively un-democratic. In fact, it would be no more than is necessary to safeguard the actual life, to say nothing of the working freedom of the president. In less than fifty years we have lost three presidents by murder, and yesterday we came near losing another leader of presidential rank. In that time no European country has lost more than one ruler by assassination, and most of them have lost none. Since 1841, nine men, Lincoln, Grant, Hayes, Garfield, Cleveland, Harrison, McKinley, Roosevelt and Taft, have been elected president, and of these four, or practically half, have been shot. It is too large a proportion. If it is only an even chance whether a president escapes shooting or not, being president must be classed as a super-hazardous occupation. A soldier in battle would be an incomparably more insurable risk. Just to make a president accessible to everybody, we literally throw him to the assassins. Why should he be accessible? You can not see a bank president, or the general manager of any large establishment, unless you have business which he wishes to see you about. It is not true, but false democracy, to deny the president the like privilege. And even a presidential candidate, especially one who in the popular imagination stands of full presidential size, ought to be able, without offense, to refuse to submit to being mobbed by crowds for their personal curiosity. As long as we have cracked brains, with sound brains to misdirect them, we will need to hedge about our public men with a certain protective aloofness.

A REMINISCENCE

The attempted assassination of Colonel Roosevelt in Milwaukee yesterday recalls an interesting conversation in Chicago this summer. It was in Roosevelt's bedroom, the morning of his departure for New York at the close of the Republican convention in June. Senator Dixon came into the room and said that he had arranged to have the big doorknocker who had acted as bodyguard during the convention go on to New York in the same capacity. "Please don't," said Colonel Roosevelt. "He does not help me, and he does hinder me." "I know," replied Senator Dixon, "but in these excited times there is no telling what some fever-brained fool might attempt." Colonel Roosevelt looked quickly toward the door to Mrs. Roosevelt's room and noticed it ajar. "Please shut the door," he said quickly, in an undertone. Then, when the door was shut, "I didn't want Mrs. Roosevelt to hear, but I have thought this all out, and what you suggest is the best of my worries. I am concerned about what may happen at Baltimore, about what some of these governors may do, and about a thousand things, but not about that." "You may not be," said Senator Dixon, "but the rest of us are." "Yes, I appreciate that," replied Colonel Roosevelt, "but I have of course had to consider this matter, and this is the conclusion I have come to. A sufficiently determined assassin could get to me, against any body guard, while an ordinary assassin I could get to myself as quickly as any body guard—and think I could do him up too. I used to carry a revolver, but I am not quick enough with it, and I stopped that long ago. But I am a man of the world, quick on my feet and accustomed to taking care of myself, and I think I am as good as any body guard. Mr. Curran will go with me, and he is all I need. At any rate, I have concluded that the thing to do is to go about my work, and not to allow myself to be surrounded with a degree of protection that would hamper that work. I don't think it would add much to my safety, in an emergency, and it would interfere a lot with my work, all the rest of the time. So please don't send anybody along."

"If that is your definite wish," said Senator Dixon, "of course we will respect it. But don't take too many chances."

BILLIONS OF FEET OF NATURAL GAS PRODUCED

Seventy-four million dollars was the value of the natural gas produced in this country for 1911. While there was a decrease in quantity from the output of 1910, the figures for the two years being 59,355,399,000 and 53,241,000 cubic feet, the value of the production in 1911 was nearly four million dollars greater than that of 1910, a gain of 4.76 per cent. The increase in demand for natural gas from consumers of all kinds, according to David T. Day, of the United States Geological Survey, in a report on the production of natural gas in 1911, just published by the Survey, makes the supply of gas a matter of growing seriousness. Beyond question, in many of the fields of the United States is simply a function of the capital invested in natural-gas lines, and especially in power plants for pumping the gas to the consumers. The increasing investments in this proportion as the unsatisfied demand becomes indicative of a falling supply. In Ohio and Indiana the yield has diminished so rapidly as to stop the entry to increase production. One important feature bearing on the production of natural gas during 1911 was the excessive demand for it in Kansas City, Mo. This caused a board of public utilities to create a commission headed by Erasmus Haworth, State geologist of Kansas, to investigate the probable duration of the supply of gas to Kansas City. In this report Mr. Haworth expresses the opinion that a supply of natural gas sufficient for the needs of the city is not possible for longer than three or four years.

PENNSYLVANIA GREATEST CONSUMER

Pennsylvania was the greatest consumer of natural gas in 1911, with an output of 154,475,375,000 cubic feet, valued at $12,123,025,000. West Virginia was third, with 60,865,645,000 cubic feet; and Kansas fourth, with 77,861,143,000 cubic feet. The Kansas figure includes gas from Kansas and Oklahoma. In Missouri, also gas mined from Oklahoma into Kansas and Missouri. In 1911 Pennsylvania used 155,227,550,000 cubic feet for manufacturing and 19,221,550,000 cubic feet for other industrial purposes—power, etc. West Virginia used 50,136,048,000 cubic feet for manufacturing and 16,854,278,000 cubic feet for other industrial purposes. Kansas used 46,579,417,000 and 3,602,365,000 cubic feet for manufacturing and other industrial purposes, respectively.

28,000 WELLS
On December 31, 1911, there were 28,000 productive wells in Pennsylvania, 4,535 in West Virginia, 4,717 in Ohio, 2,832 in Indiana, and 2,904 in Kansas. The total number of productive wells in the United States on that date was 54,428.

During the last three years the separation of the more volatile grades of gasoline from natural gas (leaving from oil wells has become a profitable industry of increasing importance. The industry did not progress as rapidly in 1911 as was expected. Undoubtedly it will eventually become a settled and flourishing business, for millions of cubic feet of gas that is now wasted on losses might be converted into gasoline about the demand and price warranted. The United States Geological Survey last year attempted to compile figures of production of gasoline from natural gas, but many plants were operated intermittently and no record was kept of the quantities of gas from such producers could only be estimated. However crude the method of manufacture, a report of the quantity of gasoline produced shows an output in 1911 of 7,435,839 gallons with an estimated value of $521,704.

ODE TO TEDDY R.

By Franklin P. Adams.

For a number of years a progressive young man in New York has been hiding his light under a bushel of "P. P. A." signatures. "P. P. A." in short, has long been a contributor to newspapers and magazines. "ALL WAYS IN GOOD HUMOR" is the title of a column of his daily comment in the New York "Evening Mail" and other papers throughout the country. "WAYS IN GOOD HUMOR" is the title Franklin P. Adams. So says the office boy. So say his friends. So say his readers. Every morning he writes a column in the "Evening Mail." He has been doing it so long, and so well, that it has become a habit with him.

Some time ago Mr. Adams, then a little more youthful looking, did some reading and writing at Ann Arbor. One day he took the train for Chicago. Next he took it for New York, where he has ever since been resting on the strap of subway express trains and taxicab cushions.

His particular hobbies are keeping a diary, playing tennis, riding a bicycle and dreaming in the language of baseball scores. Incidentally he's the author of a book of verse on "Tobogganing," the title of which is "Tobogganing on Parnassus."

PROPOSED CONSOLIDATION UNFAIR TO OAKLAND, FAVORING SAN FRANCISCO

—From the Alameda County League

OAKLAND, Oct. 13.—A spirited editorial contest between certain San Francisco newspapers and their contemporaries in Oakland has marked the fight over the adoption of the proposed constitutional amendment whereby San Francisco hopes to be enabled to annex its neighbors. It is the San Francisco league have fallen back on the argument after all, the proposed constitutional amendment is merely an enabling act, and that a vote on consolidation would have to be taken before such consolidation could be effected, and that the territory to be annexed would then have a voice. All of which is conceded. But that is not all there is of it. As the Chronicle of today asserts amusingly in an editorial.

The Oakland people contend that there is a whole lot more to it. They say that the proposed amendment would give to San Francisco the right to take in other cities, and would deny that right to Oakland and other cities. In fact, the "enabling act," the Oakland press has termed the proposed amendment a "disabling act" because of the fact that it prohibits the formation of city and county governments except for cities of a population of 250,000, and prohibits consolidation of cities under the same population limit. That is just what Oakland likes, and finds most unfair. It has neighbors, some of which are willing to be annexed, and some of which may object to being joined to Oakland. But now they would have the right to say anything about it if the amendment should carry. The amendment was framed for San Francisco, not for Oakland. The latter city is pointing out to the interior of the state that the same population applies to cities like Sacramento, Stockton, San Diego, Fresno, and San Jose. They would be barred out absolutely from annexing their neighbors if the amendment should carry.

age of $5.75 for women in American factories. Nine dollars a week is declared by welfare workers to be the lowest a woman can live on decently and safely. Women neither go into factories nor abandon their babies for choice. These things happen because industrial conditions are so bad that both women and children—3,000,000 of the latter—have to go out into the world and find their own living or help the fathers keep the families together. Hiram Johnson and his kind are the forerunners of either a better day or a day of reckoning. It depends upon the attention given their warning.—Los Angeles Tribune.

The worst effect, declares that document, so far as the company's revenue

SOCIETY

The State Federation of Women's Clubs while not boasting a political department in the federation, is taking active interest in the coming election, so far as the passing of the amendment to the free text book law is concerned. The lectures upon the subject given by Thomas Reed at the summer school session in Berkeley the year summer were among the most popular of the many courses. The amendment is to correct the weakness in the system of educational administration in the method of selecting a State Superintendent of Public Instruction by popular vote.

Among other subjects which are being agitated in clubdom of the state are three other definite pieces of work, recommended to the clubs as follows:

To aid the State University in the important work of training teachers for the secondary schools by securing the passage of a bill providing for a state high school on the University campus, to be used as a training school.

To aid the introduction of sound teaching to personal hygiene in all public and private schools, universities, colleges and normal schools.

To urge upon the directors of the Panama-Pacific Exposition the importance of an educational exhibit which will represent the whole child, and in particular which will recognize the educational and economic values of the great play and recreation movement which has grown up all over the world in the last decade.

In proof that the club women of the valley are quite as enthusiastic over the educational movement as Mrs. W. P. Miller as are the club women of Fresno, the following clipping from a Modesto paper is published:

"That the women of Modesto enjoy the best things in literature was attested by the large number in attendance at the interpretation of 'Mona Vanna' given by Mrs. W. P. Miller this afternoon at Miss Miller's home under the auspices of the Women's Improvement club.

Mrs. Miller delighted her audience with a very clever and pleasing comparison of the characters of Isabella, the heroine of Shakespeare's play, 'Measure for Measure,' and 'Mona Vanna' of Macbeth's play of that name. Mrs. Miller developed the character of Isabella as the incarnation of the modern woman, while she portrayed Mona Vanna as Shakespeare's conception of the coming woman—volitional and individual.

This conception is the more remarkable because of Macbeth's distinct change of opinion in regard to women—the change in part effected and at least hastened by his marriage to Gertrude Le Blanc, a woman of strong characteristics who has greatly influenced her husband's life.

Mrs. Miller is particularly fitted for this interpretation of the best in literature for reason of her extended study of the subjects. The women who were fortunate enough to hear her this afternoon are eager to only miss of her lectures upon the modern drama. To this end the Women's Improvement club hope to have Mrs. Miller here regularly during the winter months.

Mrs. Margaret Harris will entertain this afternoon at her home on Millbrae avenue, commencing with Miss Katherine MacArthur, who is the guest of Mrs. and Mr. Thomas R. Mather. Ladies will be the desired for the afternoon.

Miss Zoe Eden returned on Sunday night from a week-end visit in San Francisco.

Mrs. and Mrs. Arnold Schultz are receiving the congratulations of their friends upon the arrival of a little son on Sunday. Mr. and Mrs. Schultz are in Los Angeles.

Mrs. William McLane returned to her home in Lost Hills on Sunday evening, after a brief sojourn in Woodland, where she attended the wedding of a college friend, earlier in the week.

Mrs. George E. Church has as her guest, Mrs. E. M. E. H. of New York City, who is en route to San Francisco to make her home. Mrs. E. M. E. H. is a manager of musical artists and has combined interests with L. E. Behrman of Los Angeles.

Mrs. and Mrs. M. L. Lane and son Leach, will leave on the latter part of the week for Oakland, where they are to make their home. Mrs. Lane is being made the motif for a round of complimentary affairs prior to her departure.

The Women's League of the First Christian church will hold its first social meeting of the season this afternoon in the parlors of the church. Mrs. S. H. Redden, who is president of the league, will be assisted in receiving the members of the various sub-organizations by the residents of the different circles. They are:

Mrs. G. M. Boles, president of the Alert Circle.

Mrs. Harvey C. Brecken, president of the Central Circle.

Mrs. Hansen, president of the Golden Rule Circle.

Mrs. L. O. Stephens, president of the Busy Hour Circle.

Mrs. W. D. Scott, president of the Florence Nightingale Circle.

The members of the Alert Circle will be hostesses proper on this occasion, having charge of the decorations and refreshments. A program prepared for the afternoon's entertainment by Mrs. George L. Warlow, includes the following numbers:

Piano solo, Miss Allice Haines.

Soprano solo, Miss Ona (Denzel).

Middle solo, Miss Anna Nieswonger.

Piano solo, Miss Florence Marshall.

Reading, Miss Dollie Chapman of Alameda.

Violin solo, Mr. Ituschaupt.

Mrs. C. H. White of Los Angeles, is the guest of a brief period of Mrs. and Mr. Shirley Shaw at their home on Abby street.

Mrs. and Mrs. A. B. Spreckles, of San Francisco, who are the guests of Arthur Tarpey, at the Tarpey Vineyard, were delightfully entertained at dinner on Sunday evening by Mrs. and Mr. Thomas W. Patterson, at the Sunny Side Country Club. ## SAYS SMALL CITIES FAVOR ENABLING ACT

Berkeley Resident Writes in Favor of Annexation

At the November election the people of the state will have the opportunity of granting to the residents of a number of small municipalities located on the outskirts of some of the large cities of population, the right to consolidate with these large cities for the purpose of securing more equitable tax rates and better city government. This proposed measure is meeting with the bitter opposition of politicians, who see in consolidation the loss of political control and the elimination of many of the local laws largely responsible for the high tax rates.

Under the law as it now stands these smaller places are prohibited from joining hands with larger cities, although in many cases it is known that a large majority of voters are in favor of such steps. At an election held some time ago in Alameda to test the feeling of the people on the question of joining San Francisco the proposition carried by an overwhelming majority, but the present law, framed when conditions were entirely different from those now existing, prohibits the will of the people from being carried out. At an election held at Berkeley the people voted against joining Oakland, preferring to wait until it would be possible to affiliate with San Francisco before making a change. The residents of the East-San Francisco, notwithstanding the statements being made by political interests, and ask their fellow voters throughout the state to grant them the privilege of expressing their will at the polls. This can be done only by the passage of the proposed amendment relating to the consolidation of cities.

Speaking specifically of San Francisco it may be of interest to note that the limits of the city have not been enlarged since 1915, and that since that time the population has increased tenfold. Its area is but 46 1/2 square miles, as compared with 225 square miles in Los Angeles, 190 square miles in Chicago and 326 square miles in New York. Thousands of business, men and workers are living outside the present city limits and have absolutely no voice in matters touching upon their interests. The desire for consolidation comes from the suburban cities and the reason for this can be clearly seen when it is considered that within the metropolitan area of the Greater San Francisco there are now over twenty-five separate municipalities, each maintaining a costly system of local government that is proving most unsatisfactory to tax payers, who are seeking to introduce modern business methods in municipal affairs.

The proposed amendment is fair to every locality and consolidation can be effected only after the people of each municipality have voted in favor of it. The outstanding bonded indebtedness of each locality will be cared for by that locality and local self-government in local affairs will not be interfered with. The amendment has been drawn up by men residing in these smaller places and the interests of the suburban cities have been thoroughly safeguarded.

Any mergers that might be made would not affect the boundaries of Congressional or Legislative districts, or change in any way the representation of the people in the lawmaking bodies.

In voting upon this amendment the voter does not pass upon the advisability of consolidation at any of the cities affected. This is a matter that must be decided later by the people residing in these municipalities. All that is desired is that this amendment be passed allowing communities desiring to do so the right to consolidate for their mutual benefit, and to refuse this right will be to do a great injustice.

Saturday, November 2—Readley, L. B. Cary and J. M. Oliver, speakers. J. M. Oliver and local speakers will address a meeting in the city of Fresno on the night of October 23, but definite arrangements have not yet been completed for this. Oliver campaigned Fresno county some ten or twelve years ago.

Charles S. Wheeler, who will speak in Fresno on Friday night, secured the nomination of Illinois, W. Johnson at the Progressive convention in Chicago last August and it was said that his seconding speech was the most brilliant of any delivered at any of the conventions.

The state committee will arrange meetings for Madera, Visalia, Hanford and Tulare, but no definite announcements will be made until speakers are secured for these places.

California Oil Field News

NEW STANDARD WELL EXTENDS FIELD EAST

Sontag No. 2 Encourages
Operators in Coalinga
East Side Field

COALINGA, Oct. 14.—The Standard Oil Company, on section 36, 19-15, brought in the Sontag well No. 2, situated on the west line of the northwestern quarter, Friday. The initial flow gauged 4,100 barrels in 48 hours. The well was drilled to 3,875 feet, with 61.4 inch casing. After standing over night an effort was made to set in the tubing, when the well began flowing. The flow is from an open bottom. The sand encountered is coarse, carrying a large quantity of white pebbles, mixed with clear crystals. The oil is about 22.5 gravity, with very little sand and no water. This strike carries the east side field at least one-half mile further east, and the recent indications suggest fully one mile to the east, bringing in a strip of territory running north and south for some distance. This well has been carefully handled, as Sontag No. 1 did not make the showing it was expected to do, from the geological report of the Standard staff. The showing made by Sontag No. 2 has encouraged operators and holders of the east side field. The well is very near the same depth as that of the Coalinga Mohawk, yet it is over a mile northeast of the Coalinga anticline, while Mohawk No. 1 is only 300 feet northeast of the anticline. A geological study is suggested by these conditions.

INCREASE INDICATED IN OUTPUT OF FIELDS

Midway Will Show 45,000 and Sunset 6,000 Over Previous month

TAFT, Oct. 14.—Indications are that the recent reports of the Midway and Sunset fields, which are to be out in a few days, will show an increase in production of about 40,000 barrels for the Midway field and 6,000 barrels for the Sunset field. Since these fields have been increasing output the past month because of the good weather coming on, which makes it impossible for oil to run its last as during the summer season.

Expert Alfred Abbey's advance sheets show an increase in stock in the Midway field of about 40,000 barrels, while the increase in the Sunset field will be in the neighborhood of 6,000 barrels. With the production of both fields increasing rapidly, it is a point to heavy stock before spring opening and the warm weather makes it possible to run the heavy production through the lines with ease instead of slowly, as is fast getting apparent as the heavier oil gets cold.

COALINGA DRILLERS SEND REPORTS HOME

Men Operating in Venezuela and Also in Burma, Tell of Work Being Done on Two Continents

COALINGA, Oct. 14.—The Venezuela oil men are doing some wildcatting on the mainland. A letter has been received from W. H. Crooks, formerly of this field, in which he states that he is on a wildcat well on the mainland having left the island of Trinidad. This is the first attempt to develop oil on the mainland. The hole is reported to be 480 feet deep, formation hard black limestone with pitch all through it. This new company is the New York-Bernard Oil Company. Mr. Crooks says that he is pleased with this part of Venezuela. George Crooks is on the island of Trinidad and reports the Coalinga contingent as doing well.

E. C. Keeler writes from Burma that the California men are all well, so far as he could learn, and were generally satisfied with the conditions, the company and the work. He has found the company's field managers very agreeable men to work with and considerate of the comfort of the men under their charge. He finds the climate very pleasant, refreshing showers being of very frequent occurrence. The warm weather, he learns from February and June. He states, as do all the men who made the trip, that he had a delightful trip from San Francisco to Rangoon, and has been treated fine by the company's agents.

DEVELOPMENT NEWS OF MIDWAY FIELD

TAFT, Oct. 14.—The No. 4 well of the Visalia Midway Oil Company, in the North Midway field, near Coalinga, has a promising showing in oil at a depth of 2,500 feet. The hole has been run of water and mud, and because of the heavy gas pressure is impossible to pull out. Capt. Ralph Galloway, formerly of Lukensfield, who is in charge of the lease, stated yesterday that he thought he would have at least a 400-barrel well as soon as the mud is overcome and the well is brought in.

The No. 4 well of the Honolulu Oil Company, on section 11-32-21, which at one time flowed 2,500 barrels per day and then sanded up, is again on the producing list. It was reported yesterday as flowing 2,500 barrels daily. The section 21-32-21, the Hualapai Company has its No. 5 well down 2,635 feet.

The No. 5 well of the Mammoth Oil Company, on section 31-31-22, which was started on July 10th, was finished on October 10, just three months after spudding in at a depth of 2,200 feet. The well is flowing steadily about 500 barrels per day. C. P. Goodie has been contracted with to erect a new rig on the property for the drilling of what is to be known as the No. 2 well. The materials are now on the ground with the rig builders planning to go to work at once.

The Boston Pacific Oil Company is arranging to spud in its No. 2 well within the next few days. It is on section 32-31-24.

The Carbo Petroleum Oil Company has its No. 11 well down 1,290 feet. The second oil strata was struck at 1,270 feet.

The No. 1 well of the Lakeview Oil Company, on section 4-11-23, which has been having casing trouble, is now in such shape that the tools can be put down to a depth of 2,700 feet. It is on the same section as the Midway field, which was into it, and is said below the water strata and is now producing better than 3,500 barrels daily of 24 gravity oil. The No. 2 well of the Lakeview Company is down 250 feet, it having been spudded in but a few days ago.

USE OF FUEL OIL IS MAKING RAPID GROWTH

Britain's Large New Oil
Burning Battleship to Be Launched October 24

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 14.—Oil is the coming fuel for ships, because of its cheapness, cleanliness, and saving in space and weight, according to a writer in the current issue of the scientific American. Roughly speaking, in the oil engine one ton of oil equals three and one-half tons of coal, the economy being higher as the size of the engine is increased. In order to compete with oil, coal must be obtainable at 35 cents per ton. As a power auxiliary for sailing craft the new engine should find a great field where steam has not had a very extensive application owing to the inconvenience of rigging a temporary funnel, the long time required to get up steam in an emergency, and the valuable cargo space taken up by the coal bunkers and the boiler. The oil engine, on the other hand, is always ready for instant use, no funnel is required, the space taken from the cargo capacity is but a small part of the whole, and the oil fuel can be stored where it would be impracticable to carry coal. While these advantages are shared by the gasoline auxiliary, the oil engine lends in the far lower cost of its fuel in the extreme simplicity of the engine, seldom necessitating repairs or overhauling, the absence of any ignition mechanism, differential or reverse gear, and the excellent cooling system.

The new British battleship Marlborough, which was laid down at Devonport Dockyard on January 25 of this year, will be launched on Thursday, October 24, and it is hoped that the Duchess of Marlborough will perform the ceremony of christening her. As soon as she has left the slip one of the battleships voted in the year's program will be laid down. She will be of the same type as the Marlborough, but larger and more powerful. Her distinctive feature, however, will lie in the fact that she will burn oil and not coal in her furnaces. Of liquid fuel she will carry a supply of 2,700 tons. She will not be the first warship in the British Navy to use oil exclusively, as some sixty of its destroyers and thirty-six torpedo boats are constructed to burn it in their furnaces and carry no coal. Moreover, all the more modern British battleships and cruisers have furnaces which can burn oil as well as coal. The quantity of oil carried has been raised from 400 tons in the King Edward to 1,200 tons in the Princess Royal. The advantages of oil are marked. On the same weight of oil fuel a warship will travel 40 per cent further than with coal and will steam faster. The transshipment of oil can be carried out at sea, whereas coaling has to be effected in harbor. With oil there is a great saving in stowage labor, as the fuel is forced through pipes into the furnaces and has not to be shoveled by manual labor onto the fires.

EASTERN PORTS SHOW BIG EXPORT SHIPMENT

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 14.—S. B. Wakefield & Co., bankers of this city in their financial letter for October, give some facts that denote the extraordinary increase in consumption of petroleum products in the Atlantic states, and which is depleting stocks in the California fields, and naturally raising prices. Large contracts for oil have been declined because none of the companies could be sure of making the deliveries on the specified dates. The Atlantic Export trade has increased without interference from the foreign companies whose supplies are being taxed to supply petroleum. As prices for Atlantic Coast petroleum and products now stand they are far from parity with present prices in California where the Panama Canal opened. There seems no question but that Eastern prices will be still higher a year hence when the canal is open. The surplus production which has depressed prices here for several years will then go into Eastern consumption

Wrought Iron furnaces have been proven superior in every way. They will stand heat that ruins other materials, which even melts fire brick. A wrought iron furnace has durability, heat resistance, heat radiation, and absolute tightness to overcome gas leakage. A wrought iron lined fire pot will not burn out and it radiates a greater proportion of heat which means fuel economy. It will not be broken by the poker or by large chunks of fuel as brick lined furnaces are liable to be.

LINCOLN'S GETTYSBURG ADDRESS IS FINE BATTLE PICTURE

Fifer, drummer and flag bearer trio in famous picture—Fresno Photo Theater tomorrow and Thursday

On the battlefield of Gettysburg, Pa., on November 19, 1863, Abraham Lincoln delivered the ground upon which was fought, July 1, 2 and 3, 1863, the bloodiest conflict and deciding battle of the Civil War. In this day and generation we can scarcely appreciate what the heroic deeds and sacrifices of the past have accomplished for the preservation of the United States of America, and the establishment of the freedom and independence we now enjoy.

A GLORIOUS INSPIRATIONAL.

This wonderful inspirational in its allegorical illustration and marvelous interpretation of the events leading up to the great Civil War is easily a masterpiece. No fictional love story has been injected to color or heighten

—it stands on its merits as a rare and reliable historical production. MAGNIFICENT BATTLE SCENES. As an undertaking the picture must represent great expense, study and painstaking. The expense of staging the battle scenes was enormous, to say nothing of the labor and patience involved in maneuvering hundreds of troops in such realistic bat-

les. A sham battle in the open, from a military point of view is one thing and the feat of getting it within range of a motion picture camera is still another, more difficult than the former.

The picture begins with the subtitle repeating the first sentence of the Gettysburg address: "Four score and seven years ago our fathers brought forth on this continent a new nation." In those words we have a wealth of material. It covers the entire revolutionary war, and from this we see first, the famous fifer, drummer and flag-bearer trio that we all know so well, then the surrender of Lord Cornwallis to George Washington and other incidents.

Next we see the Liberty Bell, ringing out the message of freedom. Lincoln's second sentence, "Now we are engaged in a great Civil War," opens another vista of the greatest magnitude. It involves the terrible Civil War. And here, we see the bloody battle of Gettysburg re-enacted upon the screen—the most thrilling battle picture ever produced. And so on to the very end, every sentence of Lincoln's memorable oration, and so fraught with meaning, is taken step by step, beautifully and superbly done. This is, in all truth, the very least that can be said of this classic and soul-stirring masterpiece. Wednesday and Thursday will mark the farewell of this picture, it having been presented already twice before.

ELECTRICAL ACT
EMPIRE FEATURE

Miss Freda West at the Empire.

Illusions so strong as to make one doubt the evidence of his own senses, indescribably beautiful effects secured in some mysterious manner known only to the electrician who travels with this company, and a vividness that gives the convincing touch of reality—these are features that mark the unusual act of Freda West & Company, the American Venus in her exclusive Electropose.

There is something awe-inspiring in the way in which a swimmer is plainly seen struggling through dashing waves. It is not a moving picture. It is more real, more natural. In fact the water is just as plainly seen as though one were at the sea shore. Then there is the aviation scene in which the illusion of passing over towns and country is so strong that one can almost feel the sensation. Mountains and valleys apparently slip by as though an intrepid aviator were making a cross-country flight. A switch mounted on a broom soars through the sky, flitting in and out among the fleecy clouds in the most spectacular manner.

This is the only act of its kind in vaudeville and is unbelievably beautiful and unique. A number of different scenes are given.

Harry La Belle distorts his anatomy in a marvelous manner and the wonder is that he is able to get himself back into his proper form again. La Belle seems to be without any hindering bones for he almost ties himself in knots.

There is comedy with a new brand on it this week. Early and Laight with strong clear voices sing a lot of new songs with appropriate features and actions. The fascinating Miss Early has a captivating giggle, a gurgling, infectious chuckle that soon gets everyone in laughing with her. Early and Laight are talented and they have all new stuff. Therefore they are rewarded with plenty of applause and forced to respond to recalls.

Al Hallett, well known in Fresno, is back again. This time he has a comedy skit with a vein of the serious running through it. "The Loan Shark" is its title and it is well acted out by the trio who compose the Al Hallett Company. The title moral that it points is not too broad, and the kindness from an unexpected source makes it unusual.

Ulna, Rose and Buckley, a trio of youthful entertainers, captivate the audiences with their lively singing. It's mostly ragtime and they make a decided hit with it. Mr. Buckley, the pianist and his version of "The Rosary" is much appreciated. Ulna, Rose and Buckley are unusually clever and possess voices of more than usual sweetness.

A fine show all the way through with every act a headliner, the performance at the Empire is one to cause the most favorable comment.

CALL FOR BIDS ON

A call for bids to pave the Normal school road according to the adopted modified specifications was issued yesterday by the supervisors. tenders receivable on the afternoon of Friday the 15th of next month. Martin Madsen informed the board that all the property owners had not yet signed up to the agreement to put down the concrete curbs, but the county will be taking on the chance because in any event Mr. Madsen offered to hand good for the cost of advertising for the bids. Furthermore Chairman Jorgensen made public announcement that award of contract on the successful bid would not be made until after assurance that the curbs are in accordance with the agreement.

HUSBAND DISAPPEARS;
DEFAULTS IN DIVORCE

Mrs. Flossie L. Joliff Is Permitted to Resume Name Before Marriage

Mrs. Flossie L. Joliff was given divorce yesterday by Judge Church from William E. Joliff, a well drilled, and permitted also to resume her former name of McKay. They married in Santa Barbara in June, 1903, and the divorce action followed his sudden departure from Coalinga for parts unknown, complaint having been made early in March last for his arrest for drawing a check on a bank in which he had no funds. Having kept his whereabouts concealed since, even from the wife, Joliff's whereabouts were unknown to her. The wife caused to be brought for the divorce trial from the northern part of the state witnesses whose testimony three denizens of the half world of Coalinga were named in the complaint in correspondence with the husband. Neither they nor the husband answered the summons to court and the divorce application was therefore not contested.

The implicit confidence that many people have in Chas. Johnson's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy is founded on their experience in the use of that remedy and their knowledge of the many remarkable cures of colic, diarrhoea and dysentery that it has effected. For sale by all dealers.

Always Plenty of Water
And the Cost Is Small

NOW is the time to install an electric pumping plant. It will soon pay for itself in the greater crops that can be produced because of the abundance of water that you will always have. It is cheaper to install than a gasoline engine, cheaper to operate, and it will last longer.

You can give your entire attention to irrigating when you use a motor, for it requires no attention whatever. You will have a steady flow of water just as long as you want it. The motor can not get out of order because it is so simple and you never have to go for fuel for it. It is the ideal power.

"Joquin Service" solves irrigation problems.

GETS SIX YEARS FOR ROBBING POOR WIDOW

Fred La Thorpe Sentenced in Visalia; Claim He Has Wife in Washington

TULARE, Oct. 14.—There was much satisfaction among friends of Mrs. Mary Haines today when word was received from Visalia telling of the sentencing of Fred La Thorpe to a term of six years in the state penitentiary for the charge of obtaining money under false pretenses. La Thorpe was arrested at Mount Vernon, Washington, and brought back to Tulare under extradition papers. His testimony against him at the preliminary hearing was to the effect that under a promise of marriage he had succeeded in having the widow sell her home here for about half its value and convert it into a bank draft endorsed to him. He then placed her on the train for Selma, where she was to finish up a few matters of business. Later he is alleged to have cashed the draft and later took flight to Canada. A sensational bit of evidence was introduced in Superior Court to the effect that the man has a wife now living in Seattle.

MADERA COUNTY WILL LOSE ABOUT $50,000

Attorney General's Opinion Gives That Much Interest to State

MADERA, Oct. 14.—Madera county will be deprived of interest on bonds sold to the state in the sum of $1,274.99 for this year by reason of an opinion given by Attorney General Webb. This amount is the interest on an amount of a bond issue, and this year's tax equals this amount. The bonds were bid in by the state, but the state officers refused to take them up until after the election separating corporation taxes from municipal accounts to state bonds. Madera county's loss, computed for the life of the bonds will be no more than $50,000.

Francis A. Lee was attorney for this school district and to him was addressed a letter by Attorney General U. S. Webb, in which that official said:

"I have yours of Nov. 25, 1912, relative to Madera school bonds purchased by the state in 1915 and now all sold by you.

"This matter was very fully considered and my conclusions were conveyed to the controller of Nov. 17, 1911. I have, however, in the matter and feel, under the facts, that I am compelled to adhere to the views expressed in the communication referred to.

"In the case of Dixon (Solano county) the bonds had been approved and were ready for delivery, and the authorities of Dixon were to hold them because of shortage of money, this was done.

"I have no correspondence, showing that request of this character, was made to delay the opinion in the case of Madera bonds. It is a fact, however, that the secretary of the State Board of Examiners (later called at this office, or telephone, stating that there was no hurry as to the Madera issue and suggesting that the opinion be delayed, and it is a fact that the bonds did not go out until Nov. 25, 1912. The bonds were not ready for delivery until some subsequent date.

"Of course, the pendency of the constitutional amendment was not considered by any one, and we are compelled now to view the record made at a time when no consideration of this constitutional amendment was given.

"On the facts now before me, as above stated, I am compelled to adhere to my views expressed to the controller on Nov. 7, 1911."

DEPENDENCY CASE HEARD IN HANFORD

Judge Takes Amador Case From Le-moore Under Adversement Before Taking Child From Mother

HANFORD, Oct. 14.—The case involving the dependency of Albert Amador, an infant child of 15-year-old Frances Amador, was heard Saturday in the Juvenile Court before Judge Covert. After listening to the evidence the court took the matter under advisement until Tuesday, when a decision will be given. The case is one in which Mrs. John Fisher, a sister of Frances Amador, seeks to take the custody of the child on the ground that the mother has neither the financial nor moral responsibility necessary to properly rear the child. The mother was in court with the probation officer and clung to the child with fearful eyes. Though there was some evidence to substantiate the charges, Judge Covert refused to take the child from his mother until he had thoroughly investigated the case personally, stating that the mother had a God-given right to the child which no man-made law could supersede without strong evidence.

Two Are Taken on Suspicion of Bootlegging Which Turns Out to Be Bigger Crime in Visalia

Both admitted that the "yeen sh" had been sold by the Chinese to the white man, and both were held to answer. Only a charge of vagrancy will be held against the white man, who gave his name as John Lee, but King Kow, the Chinese, will be held to answer a charge of breaking the state law prohibiting having "yeen sh" and similar drugs in one's possession.

NEEDHAM GIVES TALK TO KERMAN AUDIENCE

West Side Campaign Opens With Early Morning Meeting There

REIMAN, Oct. 14.—James C. Needham, Republican nominee for Congress from the Seventh district, opened his campaign on the West Side with a meeting this morning at Snyder hall. During the early hour at which it was necessary to call the meeting, the crowd was not large, but Needham's remarks were listened to attentively.

The congressman made the gathering strictly informal. His remarks were confined chiefly to a recital of the daily situation, in so far as possible, and to the results of his efforts through the pending omnibus tariff bill. He also touched upon his democratic opponent's stand that the tariff on California food products should be preserved because these products are luxuries and contended that the endorsement of such an opinion by the election of his opponent would do enormous injury to the state through the effect it would have upon the consumers in the East. It was Needham's view that California products are not luxuries but necessities to the large majority of the consumers of the United States, and that the producers are entitled to a tariff protection which will insure them an equal chance with foreigners in the markets of the United States.

PIONEER RESIDENT OF COUNTY PASSES AWAY

Judge Orrin Lee Abbott, of Selma, Succumbs to Heart Trouble and Asthma

SELMA, Oct. 14.—The death of Orrin Lee Abbott occurred this morning at the family residence in this city, following an illness of but two days. Death was due to a combination of heart and lung trouble, and was caused by a complication of asthma and heart trouble.

The death of Judge Abbott, as he was familiarly known, marks the passing of another of those pioneers who have been prominent in the early development of California, and of one of the men who have labored in the settlement of Fresno county.

Judge Abbott was born in Medina, New York, April 1, 1834, and was aged 78 years, 6 months and 13 days. He graduated from the Albany Normal school in 1855 and received an LL. B. degree from the Albany law school in the following year. He came to California in 1856 and engaged in teaching, and later in the practice of his profession, and won a prominent place before the bar.

Just before the Civil war he gained considerable fame when he defended a Methodist clergyman in an action brought against him for discussing the slavery question with another clergyman in public debate. Mr. Abbott's client had taken the anti-slavery side of the question and an attempt was made to send him to the penitentiary for his anti-slavery utterances.

The next case of note in which Judge Abbott was entered as prosecuting attorney was when he successfully broke up a courthouse ring of political bosses who were misappropriating public school funds. His successful prosecution of the case caused a great element to attempt to remove with the attorney who had prosecuted their friends, and they went so far as to take him out under a tree with the intention of hanging him. Judge Abbott's sincere manner and his eloquence persuaded them to desist from their purpose, and he rapidly rose to one of the most influential men of political circles in the state, and did a great deal to oust crooked politics from the state.

In 1893 Mr. Abbott came to California and settled at Santa Barbara, and as an attorney of the State Bar Association and worker in the Immigration Association he brought many settlers to that section. In 1894 he came to Fresno county and settled at Reedley, where he continued to work on these same lines and also continued in the practice of law. In the eighties he was engaged in the case of the 76 Land and Water Company. He came to Selma seventeen years ago, and after practicing law for some time engaged in farming and specialized in the ice industry and was one of the most successful operators of this section.

He was a keen thinker up to the time of his death, and even yesterday his mind was bright on all topics, and his last hours were those of peace and quiet.

Mr. Abbott was married in La Porte, Ind., in 1868 to Louisa Extra Stuntz, who survives him. There were four children two of whom are dead. The two surviving sons who reside in this city, are M. O. Abbott and S. B. Abbott.

The funeral services are to be held in this city on Wednesday afternoon at 2 o'clock.

Speeder Gives Name of Lindsay Merchant While Under Arrest

PORTERVILLE, Oct. 14.—Local officers were taken by surprise when the speeder was last seen. It was reported that G. Harold Waddell, a Lindsay merchant, had been arrested for speeding and that he was in Judge Hall's court. The speeder was arrested and taken to Judge Hall's court by an officer who believed his prisoner to be the Waddell named, and the complaint was made out in that name. He also answered to that name in police court. He paid his fine in cash and left with a few moments after his dismissal, and it was not until the next day that it was known that the man arrested was not Harold Waddell of Lindsay. Waddell was able to establish beyond a doubt that he was not in Porterville the day named. It is also very evident that the man who was arrested thought Waddell would do as well as any name in which to pay a $10 fine and let it go at that.

GOOD ROADS MEETING HELD IN MCKITTRICK

Enthusiasts in West Side Town Turn Out Well to Hear Talks

MCKITTRICK, Oct. 14.—The meeting of the Kern County Good Roads Club held in this city was not only one of the most enthusiastic, but also one of the most largely attended in the history of the organization, and the addresses delivered by prominent visiting and local men strongly reinforced the sentiment in favor of the building of thoroughfares to connect with the state highway and laterals. An especially pleasing feature of the occasion was the presence of quite a number of Indians, who thus manifested their interest in one of the leading movements of the time, work out interests of the county were well represented, officials of several companies being present, together with various commercial and industrial firms.

H. S. Williams, of the Pacific Iron Works, a leading member of the McKittrick Board of Trade, was the president of the organization of the club, presided. Music was furnished by the McKittrick brass band, under the leadership of Henry Grodzik, and members of the Board of Trade acted as a reception committee.

Mr. Williams, who has been very active in the work of forwarding the good roads movement, expressed pleasure in greeting such a large assemblage, and after explaining the objects of the club and what it hoped to accomplish, introduced Hon. Fred H. Hall of Bakersfield, the president of the organization, who gave a review of the work already done and outlined the purposes for the future, together with the ways and means whereby it was expected to secure the funds necessary for the construction of better roads throughout this section. Mr. Hall said the sentiment generally agreed to in favor of the issuance of bonds, and he trusted that the meetings held heretofore and to be arranged for in the near future would be productive of great benefit to the movement and to the general welfare in the years to come.

Edna C. A. Barlow, president of the Bakersfield Board of Trade, spoke of the probable routes of the roads which it is proposed shall be built, saying that the distance to be covered was in nearly 400 miles, and the estimated bond issue about $4,000,000. Barlow said the good roads movement, based upon the present levy, would be sufficient to meet the interest and redeem the bonds it was proposed the county should issue, within 25 years, without any additional burden being placed upon the taxpayers. This, she said, was a very important feature of the good roads movement.

H. A. Jastro, of Bakersfield, chairman of the Board of Supervisors, was next introduced, and after referring to the general interest in the state in relation to better highways, said the work of improving the roads in Kern county must be done by the county as a whole.

F. J. Burns, a leader in the good roads movement, and one of the most progressive members of the McKittrick Board of Trade, in a brief address, said the work of the county and also of the people had been laid for more in the immediate future.

Chairman Williams paid a strong tribute to Supervisor J. M. Bush, who has charge of the road work in this portion of the county.

H. G. Ball, superintendent of the Kern county lease in the McKittrick field, B. Drury, of Bakersfield; Charles A. Barnhardt, L. L. Coleman, Thomas Miller and Charles Dickinson, of Mariposa, and W. Rodgers, secretary of the McKittrick Board of Trade, made short addresses, indicating the movement and urging the people to aid it by individual and financial support.

The meeting was characterized by enthusiasm from beginning to end.

The measure carried by a very narrow margin according to the semi-official returns and the canvass showed no material change.

MOTOR CAR CATCHES FIRE AND BURNS IN YARDS NEAR GOSHEN

Porterville, Oct. 14.—Motor car No. 311, on the regular run between this city and Goshen, took fire in some unexplained manner while standing in the yards in the junction town Saturday afternoon, and when the blaze was communicated to the gasoline tank, the resulting explosion and mass of flames completely wrecked the machine, causing a loss of upwards of $12,000, as the car will have to be built practically complete. Motorman Galbreath, of this city, was severely burned about the arms and legs, being caught by the flames before he could leave his cab.

The thieves overlooked valuable articles, and were apparently in search of money. Neighbors heard someone moving about in the house, but thinking it was the owner of the place, did not report it. Mr. and Mrs. Keener were at the theater and discovered their loss shortly after 10 o'clock. There are several things about the robbery which contain rather queer features, and the police said the work is being done by a local resident, and the officers are said to be working on a number of strong clues today.

FIRE IN LEMON COVE CRIPPLES POWER LINE

Dwelling Is Fired From Oil Stove and Burns Pole of Mt. Whitney Co.

EXETER, Oct. 14.—Sunday evening excitement was caused in Lemon Cove by a fire that did some damage and might have done a great deal more. The Hawthright home caught fire from a coal oil stove that was over filled, and in a short time the entire house was enveloped in flames. The family succeeded in escaping with a very little of their household goods. The intense heat ignited and burned down one of the Mt. Whitney Power Company's poles on the main transmission line. This line carries a voltage of 6,600, therefore causing damage by fire to the entire system. Manager W. J. Balaam of Exeter was called and with a party of his linemen made a quick run by automobile to the scene of damage, and succeeded in cutting off the power before any damage was done. The loss of the Hawthright home amounts to about $2,000, partly covered by insurance.

Red Sox Mowed Down by Marquard's Work

"RUBE" MARQUARD, WITH HIS MIGHTY LEFT ARM, WINS HIS SECOND GAME FROM BOSTON; O'BRIEN TAKEN OUT

Manager Stahl Shows Poor Judgment in Starting Game With Former Denverite; Southpaw Collins Finishes Battle and Holds New York Runless; Joe Wood to Go After the Giants Today

NEW YORK, Oct. 14.—(Fighting today in the last trench, the New York Nationals repulsed the onrushing Boston Americans and sent them back to defeat, by a score of 5 to 2, in the sixth game of the world's series.

A victory for the Red Sox would have carried with it the title of world's champions for 1912, and when "Rube" Marquard walked off the field with his second triumph over Boston, tucked away in the sleeve of his pitching arm, New York took home the title of world's champions and being the title to this city.

The world's series now stands: Boston three games won, New York two games won, and one contest a tie. On the turf just back of first base, while the thirty thousand spectators were leaving the grounds, Manager Stahl and McFadden looked on to select a city in which to play the deciding game in the event New York won tomorrow's game. Stahl won the toss and all the remaining games will be played in Boston's field.

President Taft in the yacht, Mayflower, kept in touch with the game by wireless while reviewing the battleship fleet in the Hudson river.

ACTION STARTS EARLY.

All the action of the day's game came early and when the smoke of battle floated away at the end of the second inning, the score stood 5 to 2 in favor of the Giants.

Neither team made a tally, before the superb pitching of Marquard and Collins.

"Rube" Marquard and Ray Collins were the pitchers after this point.

In the first inning came the fustling tale of hits and for the first time Boston was seemingly unable to meet the attack.

Two crisp doubles, four singles, a hit by O'Brien and a double steal, netted five runs in the first inning. The four singles garnered by the Giants were slow infield rollers which on the soggy diamond were difficult to handle. Boston made its mullies in the second on Marquard's error, a hit by Stahl, and a two base smash by Engle, who battled for O'Brien.

"Rube" Marquard curved them over low and then sent up his fast one. One of the results of Marquard's service was a great for the Giants' outfielders. The three gardeners got no less than fifteen fly balls. Murray's look seemed to glow as a beacon, as he tried to catch the Boston hit and then they died his way.

BOSTON PLAYS HARD.

Boston tried gamely to overcome the lead of five runs which the Giants had piled up at the start. A brilliant catch by Snodgrass was the turning point in Boston's battle, to hold their own.

Ray Collins twirled a great game, and during the seven innings he worked, not a single Giant scored.

"We have made the start and we expect to finish it up," Manager McFadden said tonight, before leaving for Boston. "By winning the game tomorrow, we can put Boston on the defensive, and that does we can enter the late with a greater prospect of leaving New York."

ANGELS-WAKE UP AND BEAT VERNON

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 14.—Los Angeles came to life today and took the last game of the series from Vernon, after dropping seven in a row and incidentally halted Vernon's surprising pursuit of the league leaders. The game was apparently gone beyond hope at the end of the first half of the fifth inning when the score was 5 to 0 in Vernon's favor.

In that inning Chubb had been hit for a double, a triple and a home run.

In Los Angeles' half, a single by Driscoll and a double by Sullivan netted one run. In the sixth, Los Angeles continued hitting. Raleigh and Dillon's men were not stopped until after three innings, when in after five hits had been converted into four runs, tying the score. A double by Berger in the seventh, a sacrifice, and a single by Moore, broke the tie, and Chubb with splendid support held Vernon runless for the remainder of the game.

SECOND SUCCESSFUL RAID ON "FIVE MILE HOUSE"

Over $750 Worth of Liquor
Confiscated by Sheriff and Deputies

Max Zastro in Bastille; Evidence Said to Be Complete

That a pending charge against Max Zastro awaiting jury trial in the Superior Court had not caused the defendant to cease the sale of liquor on his property five miles northeast of this city on Blackstone avenue in defiance of the county dry laws, was the suspicion which led Sheriff Walter McSwain and Deputy Sheriffs Thorwaldsen and Bottorff to conduct a second raid yesterday afternoon on the "Five Mile House," also known as "Max's," which resulted in the arrest of Zastro and the confiscation of alcoholic beverages valued at more than $750.

A few hours previous to the raid the authorities had caused liquor to be purchased at the road-house and were certain a supply was to be found there when, armed with a search warrant issued by City Justice Graham in the afternoon, the sheriff and deputies descended upon the notorious "hotel" at the home of Zastro. In a previous raid but a few weeks ago only the bar rooms and the road-house had been searched but yesterday the residence of the proprietor was investigated with the result that kegs and barrels of whiskey and gin were unearthed in the basement, and cases of liquor discovered in the barn and hidden beneath a woodpile. A case of intoxicants was also found in the bar concealed beneath some papers.

Hundreds of bottles were discovered and the kegs and barrels found were all nearly full of liquor. Among the different varieties unearthed were southern, whiskey, absinthe, champagne, English stout, Finnish wines, gin, rum, creme de menthe and vermouth. Many bottles of domestic wines and beers were also confiscated.

The case appears to be clear against Zastro and will be pressed to the limit by the authorities. Sheriff McSwain declares he does not desire to persecute anyone but that the sale of liquor in the dry territory must stop. The alleged offense of Zastro he declares to be a willful violation of the law and one for which Zastro should receive the sentence limit.

At the last raid Sheriff McSwain afterwards told Zastro that the only thing for him to do was to submit to the law and that another violation would go hard with him.

In explaining the hundreds of bottles of various descriptions which littered the grounds of the "Five Mile House," Zastro last night declared that many auto parties which went through had thrown the bottles there and that they had brought beer there to drink.

The defense offered by Zastro in the case now pending that the liquor had been left on his hands when the dry law went into effect will be untenable now declares Sheriff McSwain, who says there is no doubt but that the road-house proprietor has purchased more liquor and was selling it in direct violation of the law. The supply discovered was far too much to be a private supply and would be sufficient to stock a saloon for many months, and in addition agents of the authorities are said to have purchased wine and beer at the road-house.

Should Zastro be convicted on the first charge now pending and again on this second charge which will be

CLEAR REALTY MAN OF EMBEZZLEMENT

Case Against Verne H. Carter Dismissed Without Coming to Trial

The charge of embezzlement brought against Verne H. Carter, a well known Fresno realty man, by the Pacific Coast Casualty Company, was dismissed yesterday afternoon without the case coming to trial. The charge was originally made under a misunderstanding and, as Carter declares, possibly from a motive of revenge against Bloom, who was a former employee of the real estate man.

According to the complaint, Verne Carter converted to his own use the sum of $3,200, the property of the Pacific Coast Casualty Company. In fact, as was brought out yesterday, Carter had called for a statement from the Casualty company and was awaiting its arrival before sending the money. He was not delinquent in the payment, and when the statement arrived last week the money was forwarded.

Carter was notified by the court yesterday afternoon that the case would be dismissed.

brought, the sentence under the new Wyo law could not be less than six months in jail and the maximum provided would be much higher. Information is said to be in the possession of the authorities which would lead to numerous other charges against Max Zastro should those now filed be insufficient to convict him of violation of the law.

FISHER MEETS AUTO MEN IN YOSEMITE VALLEY TODAY

Belief Expressed That Road
From Wawona to Glacier
Point Will Be Chosen

Hundreds of Telegrams
Pour in to Him From All Parts of State

Walter L. Fisher, secretary of the interior, will meet today with automobile men in the Yosemite Valley to consider opening a road to the valley for automobiles. Two roads are being considered. One is the Wawona road and the other is known as the Glacier Point road.

The Wawona road goes from Madera to the valley while the Glacier Point road goes to the valley by way of Stockton. Automobile men of the state have been authorized the use of one of these roads, but the only question seems to be which road shall be chosen. According to Chief Clerk Ugar of the land office, the only questions on which the department has to pass are safety to human life and the additional cost of keeping the roads in repair.

It is also considered probable that the Wawona road to Glacier Point will be the one chosen, although no official information to this effect has as yet been given. It is generally understood that automobiles will not be allowed to enter the valley.

The Wawona road leaves Madera, going to Haymond and thence to Wawona. From Wawona, it branches, one approaching the valley by the way of Glacier Point and the other by the way of Inspiration Point. The latter Point road ends at the rim of the valley and a trail leads down into the floor of the Yosemite. The Inspiration Point road, extends on down into the valley and is used by teams.

Inasmuch as the Inspiration Point road can be used by teams into the valley, it is believed that the Glacier Point road will be chosen, because it could not be used by teams that would go into the valley and is just as good a road for automobiles.

Hundreds of telegrams pour into the Yosemite restaurant addressed to Secretary Fisher, urging that the national park be thrown open to automobiles.

That's about the poorest way I know of obtaining permission from the government," he remarked as he looked at the stacks of missives. The second annual conference of national park superintendents was held in the Yosemite yesterday, being called to order by Secretary Fisher, with a brief explanation of its purpose. The superintendents he said would constitute an advisory board for the better conduct of national reservations. Nineteen guns boomed a military salute to Secretary Fisher as he entered his carriage after breakfast yesterday morning for a ride with General W. Forsythe, along the valley floor roads.

Secretary Fisher will come out of the valley by way of the Wawona road taking the train at Madera.

Many prominent men are now in the valley, among them Lieutenant Colonel Lloyd M. Brett, U. S. A., acting superintendent of the Yellowstone National Park, Wyoming; Robert H. Marshall, chief of the Geographic of the United States government; C. M. Ziebach, superintendent of Sully's Hill National Park, North Dakota; William J. French, superintendent of the Platt National Park, Sulphur, Okla.; R. H. Chapman, superintendent of Glacier National Park, Montana; E. D. Hill, superintendent of the Mount Ranier National Park, Washington; Frank Bond, chief clerk of the general land office, Washington, D. C.; and W. F. Arant, superintendent of the Crater Lake National Park, Oregon.

The Fresno Chamber of Commerce yesterday sent the following telegram to Fisher:

"Hon. Walter L. Fisher,
Secretary of the Interior,
Yosemite Valley, Calif.
"Believing that the Wawona road is the best and most feasible for safe motoring into the Yosemite Valley and will accommodate more tourists and make it more available for the viewing of the famous big trees, the Fresno Chamber of Commerce most strongly recommends this road and expresses the hope that you will kindly give it the earnest consideration it deserves."

Givens, president of the Schoolmasters' Club, acted as toastmaster and called for responses from many of the well-known educators present. The address of the evening was made by Judge M. K. Harris, who graphically described scenes of his trip to Europe, from which he recently returned. His observations on London and the work of the parliament were especially interesting.

A straw vote was taken among the schoolmasters on the presidential issue. The party affiliations were: Republican, 16; Democratic, 9; Independent, 1; and the results were: Wilson, 21; Roosevelt, 10; Taft, 1.

BRIX JOB STRIKE
NEARS SETTLEMENT

McCarthy May Be Present at Tonight's Meeting to Settle Matter

The strike and boycott by the unions on the Brix apartment house job is expected to be settled at today's meeting of the Building Trades Council. The union men that have been working on the Brix job have not yet applied for membership in the Masons' Union, but at last night's meeting of the Building Trades Council the view was expressed that the matter is nearing settlement, and although the strike is not definitely settled, steps will probably be taken to form an agreement. It is rumored that P. H. McCarthy, president of the State Building Trades Council, will be present at tonight's meeting, and in that case, radical steps may be taken for a settlement of the difficulty.

The admission of the Teamsters into membership in the Building Trades Council was voted on favorably, and the Sheet Metal Workers of Hanford were also admitted, a delegation of the Hanford workers being present. The delegates of the carpenters and mill workers of Madera were also present.

CHARGE COWBOY WITH CRUELTY TO ANIMALS

William Harvey, Sr., on the behalf of the Fresno County Humane Society made application to City Justice Graham yesterday afternoon for a warrant for the arrest of "Happy Jack" Hinn, a resident on Morgan Canyon road in the foothills, on the charge of cruelty to animals. The warrant was granted and entrusted to the authorities for service.

In support of the application, Harvey told the court that he had evidence that Hinn was seen last Sunday cruelly beating three half-starved mules to make them draw a load which by reason of their emaciated condition they were unable to move.
